

SunEdison Names David Buzby Chairman,
Appoints Retired KeySpan CFO Gerald Luterman to Board

Appointment of Top Energy Executives to Board Strengthens Traditional Energy Expertise for Largest Solar Energy Services Provider

Beltsville, MD – November 21, 2007 – SunEdison, North America’s largest solar energy services provider, today named independent outside director David Buzby, 47, as non-executive, independent Chairman. The solar energy services provider also named Gerald Luterman, 63, as an independent outside director. Mr. Luterman was Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of KeySpan (NYSE:KSE), one of the largest gas distribution and integrated energy companies in the United States.

Buzby, who is a founding investor and has served on SunEdison’s board since 2003, has been involved in investing in and operating businesses since 1988. He is also currently the Lead Director of ValueClick (NASDAQ: VCLK) and a board member of Xunlight. Previously, he was a director at Prevalent Power, Vice Chairman and CFO of Best Internet, and CEO of Resource Holdings.

“It is an honor to be named Chairman of the pioneer of the solar services model. We have always taken very seriously our responsibility to make solar financially successful for our customers and investors as well as help provide a global solution to the world’s quest for clean power,” noted Buzby.

In addition to KeySpan, Mr. Luterman previously served as Senior Vice President and CFO of Arrow Electronics (NYSE:ARW) and has held senior financial positions with American Express and Emerson Electric. He currently serves on the board of directors for IKON Office Solutions (NYSE:IKN), U.S. Shipping Partners L.P. (NYSE:USS), and the Lutheran Medical Center.

Noted Thomas (Tom) Rainwater, CEO of SunEdison, “David and Gerald bring world-class energy experience to SunEdison’s board. I look forward to working closely with David in his new role as Chairman and with Gerald as an outside director.”
