Carole Jacolick

Carole Jacolick is vice president of human resources and administration for SunEdison. She is responsible for the strategy and support of initiatives that attract and retain world-class talent for SunEdison. In this role, Carole creates opportunities for SunEdison employees to bring value to, and create careers with, North America's largest solar energy services provider.

Previously Carole served as chief operating officer of Mission Internal Medical Group, a medical practice of over 200 professionals. While there, she was responsible for the supervision of a nationally renowned nuclear cardiology department and several other centers and departments. In addition, Carole was also responsible for the sensitive human resource responsibilities inherent in owner, employee, vendor, and hospital relations. She was also in charge of budgeting and projecting capital and labor needs.

Jacolick holds a BS in Healthcare Management from La Verne University.
